

ECUMENICAL JURY PRIZE CANNES FILM FESTIVAL 2010

<http://cannes.juryoecumenique.org>

Since 1974, the Ecumenical Jury is invited by the Cannes Film Festival to award a Prize to a film in the official competition. The Jury has a particular perspective on the films. It honours works of artistic quality which witness to the power of film to reveal the mysterious depths of human beings and the complexity of our society.

The Ecumenical Jury draws attention to those works of quality which touch the spiritual dimensions of our existence, expressing the values of justice, human dignity, respect for the environment, peace and solidarity. These values, shared in all cultures, are also those of the Christian Gospel.

THE 2010 JURY

Michèle Debidour (France), President
Julia Helmke (Germany)
Guido Convents (Belgium)
Sanne E. Grunnet (Denmark)
Tomas Straka (Slovakia)
Jacques Vercueil (France)

The Ecumenical Jury is composed of 6 members renewed each year. Film professionals and/or committed Christians, they are nominated by the two international Christian film organisations, SIGNIS and INTERFILM. At Cannes, as in other festivals (Berlin, Locarno, Karlovy Vary, Montréal...), the Ecumenical Jury shows an openness to cultural, social or religious diversity.
